Banks & Financial Institutions

In the last five years a bank robbery occurred in the United States once every hour and 17 minutes. Over $335 million was taken in more than 33,000 bank robberies. Of those robberies, 93% of the banks robbed did NOT employ off duty police officers or guards for security.<sup>1</sup>

Making Your Branch a Less Attractive Target

It makes sense to increase your bank's protection with an off duty law enforcement presence. The challenge is to maintain high police visibility without creating an oppressive atmosphere for your customers. However, officers with the proper disposition can be difficult to locate if it is not your primary responsibility.

Off Duty Services provides off duty police officers with the temperament and experience to effectively work in your retail locations.

We select officers for their sensitivity to customers and employees, along with their experience working in high-traffic environments. We match an officer's experience and their agency's culture to the unique protection needs of banks and financial institutions. This means our officers come from agencies requiring courtesy and respect interacting with the public. We've found these officers bring that same sensitivity to serving customers and employees in banks and financial institutions.

Increasing Customer and Employee Confidence with Off Duty Law Enforcement

After a robbery you may experience higher than normal employee turnover and reduced customer traffic as their confidence in branch security drops.

Off Duty Services can help you create a safer and more secure banking environment, one that contributes to more confident employees with longer tenures. In addition, it will provide that same feeling of safety to your customers.

Our off duty police officers, armed and in uniform, are a visible signal to your employees and customers they are not alone. They're more confident seeing our officers and knowing that robbers are significantly less likely to rob a branch with a police presence.

Off Duty Law Enforcement at 1 –or– 1,000 Branches

Finding, vetting, contracting, scheduling and paying off duty police officers for all your locations can quickly become a full time distraction from your real job.

Off Duty Services can save you from that time consuming worry. Using our proprietary database of more than 10,000 active, certified and skilled officers, we can place officers in all your selected locations throughout the United States.
